INTRO
Okay, let’s get right into it and cut the fat out as I’m in business like you are, and successful business owners like to get things done quickly. I have started numerous businesses in the past, and getting the money to start off the business is one key factor in making them successful. What’s more important is getting the money I needed at the lowest possible cost to me, as it directly affects my business’ bottomline.

WHOM TO BORROW FROM
I’m just going to tell you flat out. You want to borrow from credit cards. The reason is simple. Credit card companies often give you the best promotional rate and many give you 0% interest rate for the first 12 to 15 months. One particular credit card company will even give you a fixed 7.99% APR (subject to change) on purchases & balance transfer after the promotion period (look under COMPANIES I RECOMMEND section). Many people tend to stay away from credit cards, but when it comes down to it, money is money. If I can obtain a line of credit with the least cost then I will get it, regardless of who lends it to me.

WHY BORROW FROM CREDIT CARDS
Business credit cards are very easy to obtain and application approval can be as fast as 24 hours. The application requires very little paperwork – in fact, none is required if you apply online. Whereas if you were to obtain a business line of credit trough a bank or a broker they often require borrower’s authorization form, fee agreement form, several-page long application form, copy of driver’s license, etc.

Perhaps the biggest reason to obtain business line of credit from credit card companies is the fact that they don’t have a loan fee. Did you know that a business loan origination fee can be as high as 4% of the approved amount? For example, if you were to borrow $50,000 you would end up getting $48,000 because $2,000 has been taking out as a fee. I don’t know about you, but $2,000 goes a long way for me.

SOMETHING YOU SHOULD KNOW
Now, here is the catch with obtaining $50,000 in lines of credit from credit card companies. Just like with personal credit cards that you can obtain, the credit card companies usually start you off with a low credit limit such as $5,000 to $10,000, depending on what you put in your application. So how do you get $50,000 in lines of credit from credit card companies?

You’ve probably had this figured out. You can simply apply with different credit card companies. In a way you are doing exactly what business loan brokers are doing – packaging smaller lines of credit together to form a big line of credit. However, what most people do not know is that how you apply matters.

If you apply for credit from one credit card company and they approve you for $10,000 with 0% Intro APR for the 1st year, and then next month you apply for credit from another credit card company, most likely they will deny your application. Why? Because the credit card company performs a credit check and is able to see that you already have another line of credit from a different credit card company. Credit card companies are no dummies. They know the game that people play. The other factor to your application being declined would be the fact that each time a creditor performs a credit check, your credit score drops a little.

So, here is how you apply for credit the right way. You need to apply with different credit card companies at the same time, preferably on the same day. That way, when these credit card companies perform credit checks right around the same time they will all see a “clean plate” with the highest credit score possible.

Here is another tip. Credit card companies do not verify your income that you put in the application. I am not suggesting that you do this, but it is in your best interest to state your income as high as you can so you may obtain a higher credit limit. Some credit card companies are very generous in giving out lines of credit, others may be stricter and take a longer time to get your application processed and approved. Later on I will share with you which credit card companies to apply to.

Remember, the key to successfully obtaining $50,000 or more in business lines of credit from credit cards is to apply to multiple credit card companies at the same time. When I obtain money for a new business, I personally like to apply to four (4) different credit card companies as detailed in the section below. Each card will allow me around $12,500 line of credit which adds up to be $50,000 in total usable line of credit, each having at least 12 months of interest-free money that I can use for my business for any reason.

BONUS TIP #1: MILEAGE VS. CASH BACK CARDS

If you have a choice between a mileage and cash back reward card, get the cash back reward card. Mileage rewards are a rip-off. Cash is king and always will be.

BONUS TIP #2: FICO SCORE WITHOUT CREDIT CHECK

If you ever wonder what your credit score is but you do not want to do a credit check (as it lowers your score every time you make an inquiry), then take 5 minutes to find out your FICO score range. It is very accurate as it uses true FICO score technology to determine your FICO score range.
